

RAYNE'S RUGGED CROSS

For those who have endured the immense loss and grief which swept New Orleans in the aftermath of the storm, the rugged wooden cross at the Rayne altar, formed from two of her fallen steeple timbers, has become a symbol of the unconquerable love of God, the promise of the resurrection, and the possibility of a new beginning.

With this in mind, one of the most well-known Magazine Street artisans, India Stewart, has designed a lovely silver cross pendant modeled after the Rayne cross. It is available in two sizes and proceeds from the sale of the pendant will support the rebuilding efforts of the Rayne congregation.
